CASHIER TRAPS BANK ROBBERS

Tipped Off to Plot Officials Arrange Hot Reception for Bandits.

Glencross, S. D.—Hidden in a cubby-hole above the door inside the Glen-cross State bank, the cashier, Paul J. Schirber, snuggled his finger against the trigger of a big pistol and anxiously watched his assistant and wife going about her duties in the case as calmly as if she did not know that presently the bank was going to be held up.

But Mrs. Schirber did know it. She knew that some time before noon three men would come in, menace her with guns and try to rob the bank. She knew that from his cubby-hole above the door her husband was going to open fire upon them and that when they fled out of the door—if they did—Sheriff Henry Johnson and his deputies would start shooting at them from the roof.

She knew that one slip on her part might mean death, but she did not falter. Her greatest fear, she said later, was that during those crucial moments after her husband's first shot started the battle he might get hurt. Yet she stuck to her post—cashing checks, taking deposits, talking to customers—with never an indication that she knew danger hovered over her.

Treachery Paves the Way.

Treachery had paved the way for the ambush that had been laid in the bank—treachery, that is, from the viewpoint of the robbers. From the other viewpoint it was respect for the law.

Three days previously Arnold and Ed Kaiser of Timber Lake, brothers, had approached Sheriff Johnson and told him that a well-planned plot to rob the bank would come to a head with a holdup at just noon the next Monday.

"Three other men proposed to us that we join in on the robbery," the brothers said. "We refused and they said they would give us the works if we told on them. But we are here to do that very thing."

Sheriff Johnson obtained all the details from them, then advised them to pretend to fall in with the plan and lure the robbers into a trap.

"But stay out of the bank yourselves, for there will be a lot of shooting," he warned them.

Ambush Is Laid.

Then the sheriff came to Glencross and notified the bank officials. With their help he arranged for the ambush to be set, with armed men in hiding before anyone was up and about in Glencross on the day the robbery was to be committed.

"You will have to stay home that day," he told Mrs. Schirber.

Berlin.—A great need for guards to protect men. A decree against aeronautical step court in established in Germantown.

Most recent tests indicate that he will not be able to do it.

From that stand she refused to re-cede. She went farther and persuaded both the sheriff and the bank officials that her absence might arouse comment in so small a place as Glencross and perhaps result in warning the robbers. Seeing that they were half-convinced, she renewed her arguments and in the end won the reluctant consent of her husband for her to perform her duty as usual.

"At ten o'clock on Monday morning the bandits' car arrived in Glencross, Ed Kaiser, carrying out the advice of Sheriff Johnson, was at the wheel.

His brother sat beside him. By clever argument they had persuaded the other three—George De Batin, George Anderson and Melvin Scranton—that they should remain with the car during the progress of the holdup.

The Robbery Begins.

The car drew up in front of the bank with the Kaiser boys in the front seat. The other three sauntered up to the bank from different directions and leisurely entered, one after another.

As soon as the trio had entered, Ed Kaiser snatched the ignition key from the lock and took to his heels. His brother fled to a place of safety behind the bank.

Unsuspecting, the three entered the bank.

"You will have to stay home that day," he told Mrs. Schirber.

"I've never missed a day on the job up to now and I do not intend to miss next Monday," the assistant cashier retorted spiritedly. "A little thing like a holdup doesn't frighten me off."

From that stand she refused to recede. She went farther and persuading both the sheriff and the bank officials that her absence might arouse comment in so small a place as Glenross and perhaps result in warning the robbers. Seeing that they were half-convinced, she renewed her arguments and in the end won the reluctant consent of her husband for her to perform her duties as usual.

At ten o'clock on Monday morning the bandits' car arrived in Glenross, Ed Kaiser, carrying out the advice of Sheriff Johnson, was at the wheel. His brother sat beside him. The Robbery Begins.

The car drew up in front of the bank with the Kaiser men in the front seat. The other three sauntered up to the bank from different directions and leisurely entered, one after another.

As soon as the trio had entered, Ed Kaiser snatched the ignition key from the lock and took to his heels. His brother fled to a place of safety behind the bank.

Unsuspecting, the three robbers walked into the bank. One went to the paying teller's window and presented a check to Mrs. Schirber.

Suddenly—

"Stick 'em up and give us the dough," said the man who had offered the check.

In the tests, military and civil officials co-operated in waging off the "enemy" planes. General Von Mittelberger, Inspector of the Reichswehr's arms schools, supervised the operations.

Sheep Herders to Quit

Montreal—Wolf packs are terrorizing farmers and settlers in the vicinity of Stanhope township, Haliburton, Ont.

So seriously have the wolves ravaged sheep flocks that only one farmer is continuing his efforts toward sheep raising. Only a few years ago no fewer than twenty-five men were employed in this way, but continual attacks by marauders gradually decreased the flocks until frantic farmers sold off the remainder to prevent further loss.

Such numerous and daring are the intruders that children who used gayly to make their way across the fields to school are now driven to the door by their parents in motor cars or buggies. Stanhope residents will attempt to organize a hunt.

Suddenly—

"Stick 'em up and give us the dough," said the man who had offered the check.

Bodies of Soldiers

Discovered in Ice

Rome.—The bodies of two Austrian soldiers, killed during the World war, have been found preserved in the ice of the Marmolata glacier in the Dolomites. One of them has been identified.

Four bodies of Austrian soldiers were found earlier in the summer under the snow of a high mountain pass.

"Now, get into the vault," the bandit ordered.

Lock Her in Vault.

Again Mrs. Schirber, carrying out the part assigned her by the sheriff, which was to carry out every order given her by the robbers, obeyed. She walked into the nearest vault and heard the lock turn behind her.

Up in his cubby-hole above the door Schirber kept his finger on the trigger of his pistol, waiting for the moment when, according to his orders, he should give the signal that the robbers were leaving.

As De Batin, bringing up the rear, reached the door, Schirber drew down on him and fired.

De Batin, fatally shot, tumbled down the steps leading to the street. The sack of money slipped from his fingers.

Anderson and Scranton whirled in amazement as their companion went down with blood spurting from his wound. Instantly from the roof above Sheriff Johnson opened up on them with a shotgun. He fired one shot and Anderson dropped, killed instantly. He fired again and Scranton, who had tried to return the fire, fell, severely wounded.

Fried by Husband.
Inside the bank Schirber had climbed down from his hiding place and rushed to the vault to release his wife.

"It was horrible," said Mrs. Schirber, "but it had to be done. I am glad that I was in a vault when the killing took place. I think I should have gone to pieces."

Her husband interposed objections. "You were brave," he assured her, "as brave as anyone could have been. It took more to face those men as you did than it did for me to sit up there, hidden, and shoot at them as they left."

Incidentally some one is in for a fat reward. The trio have been identified as having pulled off several Northwood robberies. Several thousand dollars are outstanding for the men who did that.

The Kaiser brothers voluntarily went to the Timber Lake jail to be held as material witnesses in the case against Scranton, which will go on trial as soon as he has recovered from his wounds. Incidentally it is believed that they know more of the gang's operations than they have admitted.

British Work to Stop,
Not to Punish, Crime

Detroit, Mich.—London's crime record is far clearer than that of Detroit or any other large American city because the British people place prevention of crime before its punishment. Sir Hugh Turnbull, London police commissioner, said on a recent visit.

Sir Hugh gave, in addition, the following reasons why the streets of London are far safer than those of Detroit:

1. Because England has fewer laws and those are strictly enforced.

2. Because the financial status of the offender is allowed to have no bearing on punishment.

3. Because a social disapproval of law breaking exists in England and crime is not fashionable.

4. There is no prohibition law in England.

5. Police are easy on first offenders and very severe on habitual criminals.

6. Because the British police work to keep people out of jail rather than to put them in.

For these reasons, the British police chief said, London, with its huge population, had not one homicide last year, compared with Detroit's score of murders.

Sir Hugh visited and inspected the Detroit police department and praised its efficiency in the actual detection of crime. He was particularly interested in the city police radio, which broadcasts orders to roving scout cars. He predicted that radio will be used internationally as a police weapon in future years.

"Air-Guard" Network

Planned by Germany

Berlin.—A great network of "air-guards" to protect the population against aerial bombardment will soon be established in Germany as the result of recent tests in East Prussia.

The tests were intended to show the effectiveness of the telephone alarm, in reporting enemy aircraft to military and civil authorities. As the treaty of Versailles forbids Germany to maintain military aircraft, ordinary commercial planes were used.

In the tests, military and civil officials co-operated in waging off the "enemy" planes. General Von Mittelberger, Inspector of the Reichswehr's arms schools, supervised the operations.

The Robbery Begins.

LET 'ER GO, GALLAGHER!

The ratio of total taxes in the United States to corporate net profits has mounted until, at present, an average of one dollar out of every four goes to the tax collector, according to John J. O'Connor, of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

This "Let 'er go, Gallagher!" spirit on the part of our official tax-raisers menaces every American industry. It menaces, as well, all investors, large and small, and the millions of workers whose jobs and living standards depend on business—progress and prosperity. We have seen, in England, Australia and elsewhere, what excessive governmental expense can do to a nation's industrial structure.

Unless, government, through its own efforts, becomes efficient and economical, it will be up to the people, through the vote, to force efficiency and economy on it.

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS

Poland is dickered with Russia, in an attempt to capture a larger portion of the Russian trade. Contact of any kind with Sovietism will mean a corruption of sound ideals of government, for which dollars afford no adequate recompense. Poland seems to be a glutton for punishment and to have learned little from her turbulent and distressing history.

The papers report that an otter tunneled under a dam on a game preserve, waited until the water ran out, and then picked up the fish from the mud. The sagacity of wild creatures often is unknown or overlooked by city and town folk.

An earthquake visits the City of Managua, in Nicaragua, and takes a toll of a thousand lives. Bad as the disaster is, it is not comparable to the calamity of a kind which fell upon Japan in 1923, when two hundred and fifty thousand persons perished. Immediate relief, of a temporary sort at least, was possible in the Central American city, since members of the Marine Corps of the United States were on hand, and did the good work that might have been expected of them.

Shell pioneers great step forward in motor fuels

Perfected new fuel amazingly high in the anti-knock value modern engines need . . . AT REGULAR GASOLINE PRICE

SHELL has succeeded—after months of effort! Today Shell offers a new fuel high in the precious quality that all cars need—the quality most ordinary gasoline lacks.

Study this chart. Note that most of the ordinary gasoline on the market falls below the needs of the great majority of all cars. But note that New Improved Shell 400 is far higher in anti-knock value than the ordinary fuel.

Best of all, it costs you no more than the ordinary kind!

Now you can be safe once and for all against motor ills and damage caused by gasoline that knocks. Shell acts to give you the kind of gasoline your car ought to have—at the lowest possible price. In the interest of low cost driving, Shell pioneers this great step forward in motor fuels.

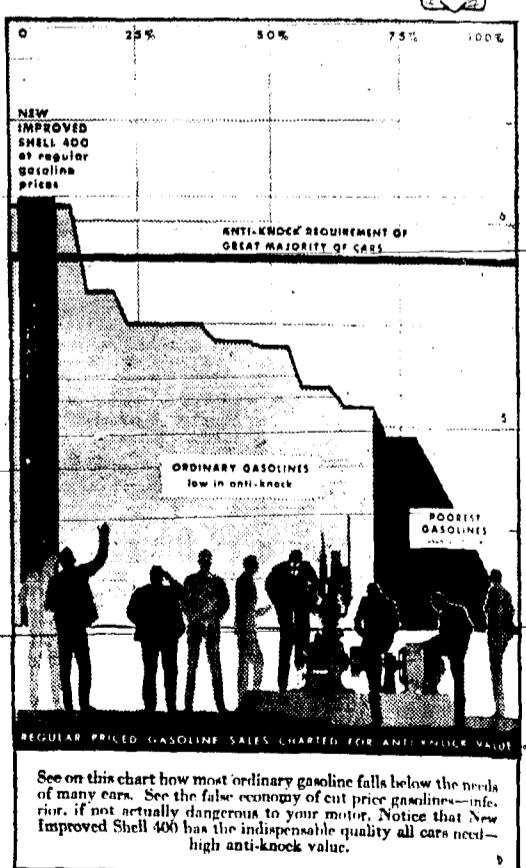

You may be getting the kind of gasoline your engine should have. But millions, as this chart will prove, are putting up with poor motor operation, getting less power and facing higher repair bills than they should—due to incorrect gasoline.

Make a test of New Improved Shell 400. Try one complete filling of it—at least 10 gallons. Ask about the nation wide mileage test. Enter it, today.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

A good stand of alfalfa is easily injured by overgrazing. Alfalfa should not be pastured the first year and only lightly the second. It is doubtful if it is advisable to pasture alfalfa at all in the East because of the difficulty of getting a good stand in this section. Hogs are less injurious than are other livestock.

Don't turn the dairy cows on pasture too early in the spring. Early grass is watery and immature. Wait until the grass is 3 or 4 inches high and then turn them on it—but only a few hours a day at first—and continue to feed grain, hay, and silage for a while, to lessen the danger of bloating.

Thorough cleaning of seed wheat will reduce losses from weeds in wheat fields. Cleaning removes not only weed seeds, including wild oats, but also shrunken grains and broken kernels. These weed seeds and broken kernels can be used as feed for poultry and livestock. Several types of efficient cleaning machines designed for farm use are now on the market. Farmers' Bulletin 152-F, The Corn Earworm as an Enemy of Field Corn in the East, can be obtained from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Before And After Calving

Several days before the cow calves reduce the quantity of silage and hay slightly. If grain is fed, cut the amount down to 3 or 4 pounds a day, and oats mixed with wheat bran and cracked meal are good feeds at this time. The drinking water should not be cold. For several hours before calving feed very little hay, if any.

A warm bran mash is the maximum amount of plant food stored in the roots and stems. Feed sparingly. A cow that has been plowing under later will add more dry feed six weeks to two months, and organic matter to the soil—but will not increase the quantity of nitrogen. Moreover plowing under the heavy growth may deplete the soil moisture to the detriment of the succeeding crop.

Reduce Corn Earworm Injury

Many farmers, especially in the about four weeks.

We notice a great many steamship lines are advertising low rates to Bermuda. Well, it ought to be a good place to go with the onion season just around the corner.

Iowa Brothers Set New World's Record in Ford

IOWA state officials and civic leaders witnessed the establishment of a new world's non-stop, non-wheel stop automobile endurance record recently, when Ralph and Rolland Davis, brothers, brought their Model A Ford to a halt at the east entrance of the state capitol in Des Moines after 2,775 hours and 46 minutes of continuous driving.

When Governor Hammill, standing with Walter Ferrell, executive secretary of the Iowa Chapter of the American Automobile Association, gave the signal to stop, the Ford had traveled a total of 47,133 miles over all sorts of roads in all sorts of weather and had exceeded by 28,680 miles and more than 2,335 hours the American non-stop endurance record which, therefore officially recognized, was made by a much heavier car under almost ideal conditions on the Indianapolis speedway last year. In the course of the endurance run, the car, known as "The City of Des Moines," covered practically the entire state of Iowa.

Engineers who examined the Ford at the conclusion of the run asserted that neither engine nor chassis showed evidence of the grueling strain to which they were subjected during the 118 days of continuous driving. Both apparently, according to the engineers, would have been good for another 50,000 miles or more.

WHY THEY JOIN

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Colton was very proud when he was pledged to a fraternity, and when three months later he was initiated, and one of the brothers attached a jewel pin to his vest he was delighted.

If some one had asked Colton what motives induced him to become a member of the organization he might not have been able to give a convincing answer immediately, but it was not many months before anyone who knew him well could have given the reason. Colton had no thought of contributing anything to the advantage of the organization. He was in it only for the prestige or the power which it could give him.

He was politically ambitious, and he expected his fraternity to further these ambitions in every way possible. He had no special principles to guide his actions except the principle of self-advancement.

Outside of the organizations to which he belonged he would not hear a great deal of Walters. He was not a man who pushed himself into the front seat at any meeting he attended. He was not disgruntled if he did not sit on the platform when prominent people were in town. He never wanted an office, and if his name were suggested he could always conjure up some good reason why some other man was better fitted for the place than he himself was. But he knew every man in his fraternity, and he liked everybody and everybody liked him. There are all sorts of men in any group of thirty or thirty-five, but Walters seemed to understand each man's own peculiarities and to be able to adapt himself to his particular idiosyncrasies. It was to him that each man went when he was in any sort of trouble or wanted help of any kind.

Walters had joined the organizations to which he belonged not so much for what he could get out of them but for what he could put in. Having joined, he felt his obligation to contribute something. English as he was, never looking out for his own advancement, he yet got more pleasure and profit from his association than did Colton who never gave a thought to anyone but himself.

more than 80 inches wide; requiring return of license plates taken from junked automobiles.

Transfer Soldiers Home. Senator Arthur Wood has introduced a bill providing for the transfer of the Soldiers Home at Grand Rapids to the federal government. He pointed out that the maintenance would increase to large sums as soon as World War veterans to be cared for increased in numbers.

Governor Brucker has signed a bill sponsored by Senator Chet Howell of Saginaw, providing that the state's receipts from boxing and wrestling shall be divided into two equal parts, one for the purchase of athletic equipment for public and parochial schools and the other for state park equipment.

Invite President Hoover. Michigan would invite President Hoover and his family to Michigan to establish the summer "White House" under a resolution submitted by Rep. Earl Burham of Paw Paw.
